

Absolutely love your station. Lost you for a while when you first moved to 99.5 since the connection wasn't great. Glad to have you back!

A longtime listener of WCRB

A long time listener who is sad to find that I can not "pull in" your new location at work.

It must be all the computers around me! Now, I take you in my car and at home.

A great station... I thoroughly enjoy listening to this classical music as I study for my CPA exams... Tim

A great station to listen to a friend just told me where you are now. Thought you just disappeared. I AM SO GLAD TO HAVE REDISCOVERED YOU!!

A faithful listener from The Swedish Cemetery Corp. (however now retired- and retirement is not cracked up to be what they say---so Ray keep working! You would love the cardinals in our yard!!

102.5 then, 99.5 now, our family's only station.

Dear Mr. Edwards,

I want to thank you for being on Internet.

I wrote to Mrs. Laura Carlo two years ago to express my sadness for not having this wonderful classical radio on line. I lived in the Boston area during seven years and I used to listen to your delightful music every single day. When back home, in Brazil, I missed you all a lot.

Yesterday, while surfing on Internet I thought: "Let's check something...we never know..." I've found you!!!! Live!!!

It is really a pleasure to have you with such wonderful music and programming back in my house.

Thanks again for such initiative and please say hello for me to Mrs. Laura Carlo and all WCRB's staff.

Best regards,

Hi,
This morning, while driving to Boston with my 3 year old granddaughter, we had the delightful pleasure of hearing a special rendition of Make Way For Ducklings on Kids Classical Music. It was especially meaningful because we were enroute to visit the ducklings at the Public Garden as well as her 1st ride on the Swan Boats. She has visited the ducks many, many times and basically knows the book by heart!
I did not catch the name of the musical piece and would appreciate it if you could send me the full title so I can get it from Zoe.
Thank you,
Sandra

Hi,

I just wanted to let you know how much I have been enjoying to Listo Fisher on "Sunday Morning Brunch" for the past few weeks. I have been hearing him for years as a news person, and I think he has a wonderful voice and manner for a Classical Music announcer.

I sure would like to hear more of him!

Dear Mr. McNeil:

Just a brief note to thank you again for running our PSA and to let you know that we have had several more responses. A very bright retired physician just joined our team of medical readers; he heard about us late one recent evening on WCRB. Just one volunteer of that sort can make an enormous difference in our service. So, once again, thank you very much, and please continue to air our PSA whenever you feel it is appropriate. The announcements are reaching the right people and are making a real difference.

Sincerely,

Food Share again posts record

FOOD SHARE

The new record was greeted by applause from the few people still on hand at the radio station as the broadcast concluded its 12th and final hour.

"As we hit the 6 o'clock hour — a brand new record," declared veteran radio personality Russ Dowd, the public voice behind Food Share.

Food Share President Ray Fournier said he expects this year's grand total to eclipse the $25,000 mark when residual donations are sent to the local food pantry at 79 Elm St. Whatever the final tally, Fournier hopes to set yet another new record in 2008, the 28th annual radiothon.

"We've got to top this next year," Fournier said. "The tri-community area came through."

When this year's radiothon was another record-breaker, nobody knew for sure at the beginning of the day how the event would pan out.

"We need every nickel we can get our hands on," Dowd told listeners early yesterday as they made their morning commutes to work. "So many charities collect huge amounts of money nationwide and in order to do this there is this huge bureaucracy. Food Share has no salaries, no rent, no perks whatsoever. Virtually every nickel collected, every canned good, every loaf of bread — it all stays in the community."

He later added: "We do this once a year in a desperate attempt to take in enough that we don't have to come back."

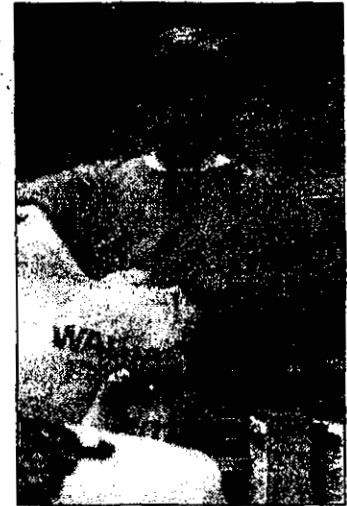

The radiothon was off to a good start, with the announcement that approximately $1,700 had been raised by 8:10 a.m., well before many had hit the road to work or even gotten out of bed.

State Rep. Todd Smola, R-Palmer, said that early start just simply wasn't enough.

"If you haven't made a donation get put here," Smola pleaded with listeners. "If you make a contribution you will feel better about yourself. People out there are wonderful. All you have to do is ask them."

Smola's pleas did not fall on deaf ears as the tally had risen to $2,300 by 8:55 a.m.

Louise Majewski of Southbridge sorts through bags of food donated to the Food Share radiothon.

Manager Clayton R. Carlisle noted the money and food dropped off at the radio station and any of the other numerous drop-off locations in Dudley, Southbridge and Webster, will go a long way.

"The need for food is there," Carlisle said. "Help out where you can."

Those who could help did.

donations in annual radiothon and support one another in a time of need," Dowd said.

By 9:30 a.m., however, Dowd noted that the tempo had changed.

"Things are a little bit slow," Dowd said as he announced a running total of $2,545.

Southbridge Town Clerk Madaline I. Daoust, however, refused to allow a slow down during her time on the airwaves.

"Come on out. Just drop off some food," Daoust declared. "No matter where you are in the surrounding area you can find a drop-off location."

Those willing and able to give had ample choices in drop-off locations, including Shaw's in Sturbridge, the food pantry in Webster, the Webster Post Office, Place Motors in Webster, the Park 'N Shop in Dudley, Ideal Pools in Southbridge, Big Bunny in Southbridge, the Elm Street parking lot in Southbridge, the Casaubon Senior Center in Southbridge, Mid-State RV in Southbridge and The Spirit 970-AM WESO's studios in Southbridge.

The push worked a bit as by 10 a.m. the total was just shy of $2,900. Despite the forward progress, Boston Red Sox public address announcer Carl Beane, a former WESO personality, wanted more.

"The need is there," he reminded listeners. "It all helps. Every single penny. Any donation you can provide is more than welcome."

Those pennies rolled in as there was $3,200 collected by 10:30 a.m. The donations exceeded $4,000 by noon.

Southbridge Fire Chief Leonard Laporte agreed with Beane.

"There is a great need for Food Share," said Laporte, citing illnesses, injuries, fires and other situations that result in a family looking at skipping a half dozen meals over the course of a week.

Southbridge Town Council Chairman Ronald J. Chernisky said those situations arise and programs like Food Share help many families rebound and get through a rough patch. He lauded those who went through troublesome periods and are now able to return the favor.

"It's great to see people who went through times get back on their feet and give back," Chernisky said.

Dowd agreed and indicated donors never know how their gift will impact someone.

"Maybe the person you're helping is a youngster going to school hungry," Dowd said, wondering aloud what that theoretical child could accomplish one day.

Perhaps, that hungry boy could eventually become a Food Share donor himself, or a volunteer watching the final figures rise from $15,768 at 5:26 p.m. all the way up to $23,500 in 34 minutes time.

"It's just a little thing we can do," said WESO General Manager Dick Vaughan. "It's what you can really do when you put your mind to it."
